

Abstract

Alma Swan

Repository developments and what they are doing for OA

A lot has been happening in the world of repositories over the last year or so. I will review progress in the number of repositories, what they are for, what they contain and the services built upon them. These will be discussed in the context of open access, highlighting which developments are having the best outcome in this regard.